

[REDACTED]
Huntsville, AL 35801
September 30, 2011

Dear Mrs. Ingram,

The life cycle of a butterfly is cool. A butterfly starts out as a caterpillar that hatches from an egg. In second grade, I got two caterpillars to watch. They grew and grew. Now, they are hanging in their chrysalises. They will change into Painted Lady Butterflies. This is called metamorphosis. The Painted Lady Butterfly has wings, antennae, and a proboscis. I really think the life cycle of a butterfly is awesome.

Sincerely,

St. #4

